Compared to last week's market, feeder steer and heifers ended $2 to $4 lower on all weight class averages. Slaughter cows finished mostly steady while the slaughter bulls ended $1 stronger.

Expanding dry areas in the grazing country along with the current rising inflation rates are beginning to dampen some of the bullish trend we have been witnessing. Although still strong, the market is showing signs of weakening with the plainer end generating most of the noticeable change.

NEXT WEEK WILL BE OUR JANUARY WEANED CALVE SALE
